SIGNAL

Identity principles
Version 1.0

BRAND GUIDELINES / FICTIONAL IDENTITY

One clear signal.

Signal is a fictional information service. The identity uses a strong wordmark, a single bright accent and typography that remains readable at small sizes.

The guide demonstrates a usable visual system rather than a collection of decorative logo placements.

Clear

Direct

Useful

Keep clear space equal to the height of the capital S on all sides. Do not stretch the wordmark or place it over busy photographs.

Use the dark mark on light backgrounds and the white mark on dark backgrounds. The accent is a supporting colour, not a replacement for readable text.

INK / #202B34

SIGNAL / #F2C500

Use ink for primary text. Use the yellow accent for emphasis and graphic shapes. Check contrast in the final context before applying either colour to small text.

Aa Bb Cc

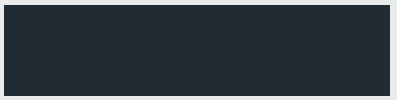

A clear hierarchy begins with the words.

Headings: DejaVu Sans Bold. Body: DejaVu Sans. Keep line length comfortable and use sentence case for explanatory text.

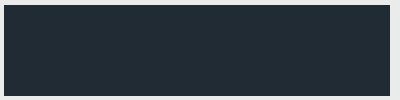

01

Use a small set of aligned columns.

02

Let one element lead the page.

03

Keep supporting information quieter.

A three-column example; the grid is a guide, not a requirement to fill every cell.

Application / notice

Service update

State what changed, who it affects and the next action. Put the date and a reliable contact route close to the instruction.

A system people can use.

Brand-guide study with native wordmarks, colour samples, typography and application layouts.

NATIVE ARTWORK / Wordmarks, colour samples, typography and layout graphics.