MAKE ROOM

A short planning workbook

WRITE / REFLECT / CHOOSE

START HERE

01 / Name the problem

Describe one situation you want to improve.

What happens now? Write a concrete example, including where the difficulty starts and who is affected. Avoid solving it in the first sentence.

02 / Notice the pattern

Separate what you observed from what you inferred. A useful note makes that difference visible.

Observed	Assumed

What would you need to check before acting?

03 / Explore options

Write three small changes before choosing one.

C

ACTION

04 / Choose a test

Prefer a small test with a clear review point.

What will you try?

What would count as useful evidence?

When will you review it?

REFLECTION

05 / Review what happened

Record the result before deciding the next step.

What changed?

What will you keep, adapt or stop?

A small test is still progress.

Use this workbook as a place to think, not as a promise that every problem has a quick answer. Some decisions need more information, specialist advice or agreement from other people.

Keep the date and the context with your notes so you can understand them later.

Leave space to think.

Workbook study with editable prompts, comparison cells and practical writing space.
